QUEST FOR THE

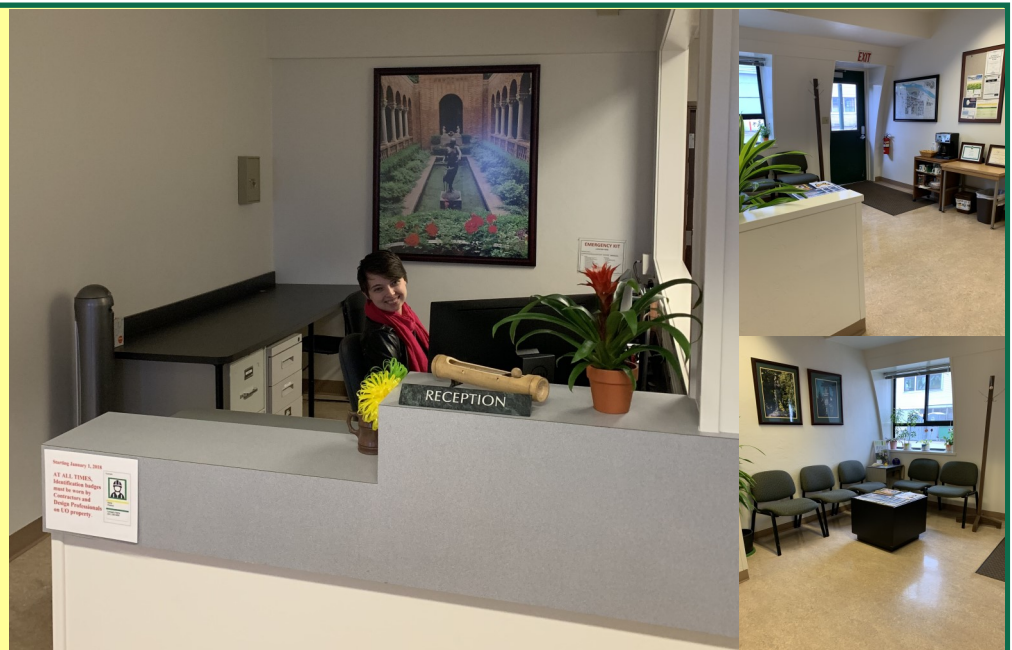

BEST

What should CPFM keep doing?
What should CPFM stop doing?
What should CPFM start doing?

Thanks to Tad Lueck's crew for making the lobby of the Quonset Hut whiter and brighter. Judy Peters brought in a plant, I brought in some pots, and Ashleigh Sizemore made great strides cleaning out years of clutter that had amassed in that area. Roland Guerrero did his part, changing out the lighting. Looking good!

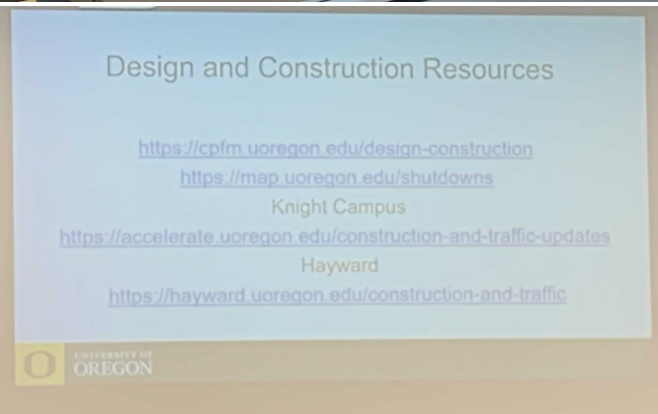

Employee News

Thanks to Pablo Hernandez Reyes and his daughter Andrea for some great pics from TAKE YOUR CHILDREN TO WORK DAY, in April; including our own Jeremiah Iguo & his daughter Claire. The VPFA put on a day of learning at the FAC, with staff members from across campus. Sessions included leadership, communication and building skills. After that, the parents/kids were allowed to tour the museums, science center and other locations, for free. A fun day for all!

Employee News

The quarterly Facilities Liaisons Meeting on Tuesday, May 7th was well attended. Speakers included Jeff Butler, Steve Pelkey, Lawrence Elliot and Donny Addison from CPFM, Steve Stuckmeyer from SRS, Captain Jason Wade from UOPD, Peggy Schneider from Transportation Services, and Ken Kato from GIS. There was time for Q&A and an abundance of snacks, which went to Leftover Textover, a program that provides students the option to come grab leftovers from meetings.

UNIVERSITY DAY!

Although smaller than in past years, University Day still brought out many CPFM volunteers. In fact, we had more people than tasks! Nick Sloss (above right) was on hand to help and direct. He and the grounds crew also did all the prep—providing tools, gloves, plants, bark and inspiration! Overall, things definitely look better around here.

DIVERSITY RELATED EVENTS June 2019

Above, Jason Younker, Assistant VP and Advisor to the President, shows off his skills at the Coquille Salmon Celebration. Susan Anderson invited Jason to come and speak at our last Diversity Committee Open Forum. He addressed several topics including the 43 recognized tribes in Oregon. UO is the leader in Native American education, recruitment and retention. The Longhouse is a place where students from the tribes find respite. Many students are first in their family to attend college. Many Nations provides support and weekly dinners.

On June 13th, Nick Grant will lead us on a tour of the JSMA, to view artwork from other countries. It will be the Diversity Committee Open Forum's first field trip!

June (through June 17): Emergence – Art from Inside exhibit, University of Oregon Prison Education Program, EMU Adell McMillan Gallery.

June 3, 4:30pm: Dr. Elijah Siegler: How Daoism Became American: A Tale of Translation, Conservation, Immigration, Appropriation, and Impersonation, Knight Library Browsing Room.

Every once in a while, our custodians get the fun task of rescuing critters who have managed to get trapped. This little guy was in the UOPD ground ventilation system, crying because he couldn't find his way out. Jerimiah Igou and Cory Elgin found the entry point, put a bucket with leaves in front of it, then waited patiently for "Moley" to find his way out. The unsung heroes!

Employee News

Linda Miller and Megan Delaney represented UO at the WOMEN IN THE TRADES CAREER FAIR on Friday, May 17th. There was a tremendous turnout (about 1500 people). Many were surprised and impressed to find out we employ our own trades people. Also folks were interested to know we have our own custodial unit and our own power plant. Quite a few asked about possible internships and apprenticeships, which Megan brought back to share with FASS. They held a raffle, had a spinning wheel and handed out tons of prizes. Thanks to CPMF units and UOPD for the swag.

This month the Work Management Asset Reliability Team, FASS IT, GIS, Work Control and Design and Construction had a three-day workshop with Will Kline from Asset Works. This team is defining a new facilities asset structure that will work across the Asset, PM, and ANA modules in AiM. The Asset Reliability Team has been working on cleaning up nomenclature and preparing our data for a load sheet called Asset Sync. Asset Works is helping us reimplement this fundamental AiM foundation aligning with RS Means and providing training on new PM Standards and PM Templates. We went away from these sessions with expectations and homework for the various team members.

KUDOS KORNER

Rod,

Thank you for the kind words, your appreciation for FASS Stores and Purchasing is truly appreciated.

Have a wonderful day, J

Did a walk through Monday around 9am with CPS staff while performing SPCC training and by Thursday 2 pm it was completed. Also found a couple more showers w/o slip tape and they were going to install for each shower.
GO CPS!
