HAPPY NEW YEAR!

THE GREAT TURKEY GIVEAWAY

CPFM decided to give a turkey to every employee since we could not have our holiday luncheon this year. Anne and Tad picked up a truck and 215 turkeys to distribute on December 16th.

Jeff Butler, Phil Carroll, Kevin Farthing, Jim Cody, Tim Winder, Kyle Wilson, Paul Langley and others helped hand out turkeys after shifts

The graveyard night picked theirs up on the night of December 15th

Virtual Winter Celebration

On December 17th 2020 at 2pm, we had our first (and hopefully last) virtual celebration with slideshow and 5 Trivia games.

Custodial Recognition

Also on December 17th, we held 3 custodial recognition celebrations, providing Subway lunch boxes, the slideshow and some heartfelt messages from Mike Harwood. Below, Linda Miller & Nick Grant show off their holiday spirit.

Hamilton Walton Transformation Project

George Bleekman & Alison Hake have been busy working on the Hamilton Walton Transformation Project. The 7-story building with mixed use on floors 1-2 and resident rooms on floors 3-7 offer a wide range of services and stunning views. On the first floor, there will be a large dining space with nine individual food venues (ranging from coffee to deli to steamed buns to wood fired pizza to fresh-pressed juice), a recruitment center, and some office space. The second floor has apartments for the Faculty in Residence and Community Director along with multiple ARC spaces, a couple of study lounges and a community kitchen. Floors 3-7 are all resident rooms and study lounges. The views from the study lounges and resident rooms are incredible – some are looking directly into Hayward Field. (see below)

DJC TopProjects 2020 Second Place Tykeson Hall @ UO

The University of Oregon in Eugene has a large collection of historic campus buildings, but the university is also experiencing a wave of new construction to accommodate a growing student body.

One of the most recent additions is a modern, new academic center. For the new Willie and Don Tykeson Hall, Office 52 Architecture firm principals Michelle LaFoe and Isaac Campbell were strongly drawn to this aesthetic even as they drew up plans for a unique facility that offers academic advising, career services, tutoring in mathematics and other subjects and event space.

Sustainability Updates

SAVE THE DATE

WINTER SUSTAINABILITY OPEN HOUSE

FRIDAY, JANUARY 22 - 10AM - 11:30AM

Speakers will be announced soon on the Open House webpage

ARTICLE by Sarah Stoeckl

One of our very own co-wrote a short article titled "Equity is Great But What Does it Have to Do with Sustainability?" If you've ever asked yourself this question, or find yourself struggling to understand the shifting terms and dynamics behind today's sustainability movement, consider reading Sarah Stoeckl's article for some perspective. It's 10 minutes well spent.

Sarah also facilitates a book club for UO staff who want to dive deeper into the modern environmental movement. Several CPFMers currently participate as do staff from Business Affairs and Student Life. Feel free to reach out to her for more information.

Sustainability Ambassadors

Student work stops for no pandemic! The Office of Sustainability is pleased to have hired 12 Sustainability Ambassadors for this academic year, one new student working on graphic design and communications, and three working on a COVID-adjusted version of the Score Program. We are also pleased to welcome one of the second cohort of VPFA interns for the winter quarter. Most of these students are working remotely for now, although some may be spied at times in the CPFM

Administrative Building Office.

Subject: UO Custodial Commendation

All,
 I'm not sure who needs to hear this, so I'm sending it to you all in hopes that some sort of recognition is passed along to a very deserving person.

The UO Custodian Ivy (I don't know this person's last name) has been cleaning the Music building for most/all of Fall term, and though the Music building has plenty of students accessing the building every day, as well as most of the Music faculty (though only a handful of staff) the building has never been cleaner. Furthermore, Ivy gets their work done without fuss, without hurriedness, but with steadiness, friendliness and calm assurance. Areas that I though our Custodians just never had time to touch Ivy seems to clean every day.

Ivy is a real pleasure to work with. A real gem. Good job on the hire – do it again!

Hi!

I wanted to take a moment to give a positive shout-out to Kenny Ramsdal, who graciously came to our rescue when we had multiple lighting issues happening in our fish facility when our Manager was away.

Our fish are on a light cycle for breeding purposes, so lighting is critical, and we use special bulbs throughout our fish room.

Kenny not only fixed ALL of our lighting issues (bulbs, ballasts, trouble-shooting, ordering), he offered to come back if we ever had an issue or needed a bulb replaced.

We really appreciated the quick response and helpful input Kenny provided. Great service, great attitude. We were all very impressed and grateful.

Also, a big THANK YOU to the nice lady (Judy?) who took my call late in the day and helped get the ball rolling.

Happy Holidays to all!

Best regards,

Subject: Christmas Eve Duty Call

Hi Jim,

I wanted to let you know that one the evening of December 24th I received a call on the AD duty phone from Robin Wood. He was at Klamath Hall investigating a flume hood that was down. He said that he knew what issue was: a broken belt, and he could change it if someone could tell him where they were. I then called Dan Pennisi, who subsequently spoke with Robin and helped him find the correct one. Twenty minutes later Robin had the belt changed and the hood running.

It is customary to get great customer service from Building Systems staff, however, in this case both Dan and Robin worked exceptionally well together, again, I just wanted to let you know.....

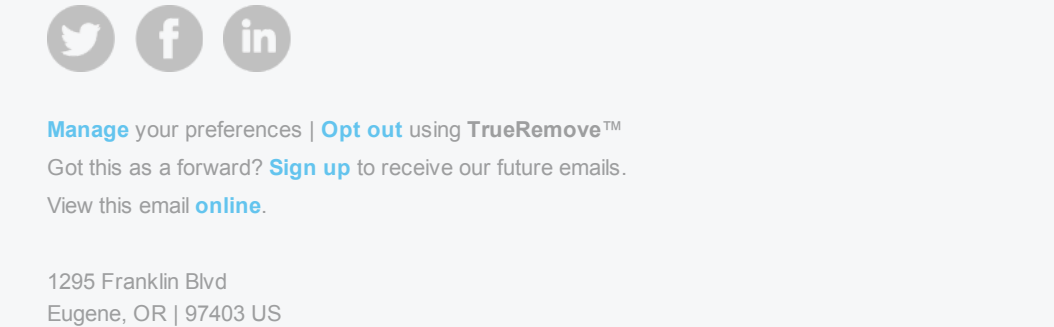

Thanks,
 Kevin
